

Daily Stag

Vol. 02 Issue 7 6-19-02

Helpful Hints

When waging in song warfare, always remember that sneak attacks work best.

Swarm Of laziness takes over camp.

The staff of the daily stag has stumbled upon some of the camps top authority figures sleeping on the job. Not that we want to mention who but the course director thinks that this is not a very funny subject. "I... I mean the staff is a very hard working group of people who deserve there cat naps"- Mr. Duffy said While we respect the need for sleep here at the daily stag (ha! the irony) we think that sleeping should be done in a normal place such as the office.

Romantic Update

Big Bertha is putting out more than Ben Sprout can handle. He And the rest of the kitchen staff are up to their knees in ice. In an interview, Dennis Boyle was quoted as saying, "The next ice age is upon us...chief." For any suggestions on what to do with the extra ice, contact our kitchen JASM, Todd. Be careful not to mention anything to Sprout, he tends to get jealous.

Caught on Camera!

Due to food deprivation, 021's ASPL, Brian Starkel, has taken it upon himself to stuff his face with crumbs from the kitchen floor.

Rumor Mill

Rumor has it that the defending champions, Troop 022, will have their secret singing weapon, General James Boyd, back in action by tomorrow. It's not looking good for the other guys.

Top Ten Things I'd Rather Be Doing Than Writing the Daily Stag

- 10) Sleep
- 9) Eating
- 8) Running through the forest finding massive stumps
- 7) Song wars
- 6) Running around with the victory flag from the song war
- 5) Did I say sleep already?
- 4) Checking out the girl scouts
- 3) Driving the mixer
- 2) Flinging filled water bottles across the staff site

And the # 1 thing I'd rather be doing:

- 1) Looking for deleted files on The Duff's computer
